

Let me quickly summarize what we have seen so far. The Roman Empire is currently being revived through the EU, though only in its infancy. Perhaps through the UN's 2030 Agenda and the World Economic Forum's Great Reset, many more nations will align themselves with the emerging global government. Sometime after this, we will see 10 influential leaders emerge in this seventh kingdom. Referring to the chart in the previous session, we are likely in between Phase 1 and Phase 2 of the seventh kingdom.

To get a better understanding of the seventh kingdom, let's spend some time looking at Revelation 17-18, which reveals this kingdom in great detail. These two chapters form the longest prophetic vision in the book of Revelation, are the longest prophecy in the New Testament, and are one of the longest prophecies in the Bible. This means Revelation 17-18 are highly significant chapters and worthy of deep study and contemplation. As I unpack these two chapters, I will describe the harlot city in greater detail, including the coming one-world government, one-world religion, and one-world economy.

A Deeper Look at the Harlot City

Let's quickly review what we have learned about the harlot who rides the beast. As we have saw in Session 7, this harlot is a real city—a port city located relatively close to the ocean. This city is a harlot because it exports false religion to the nations, intoxicating the world with a mixture of paganism and Christianity, doctrines of demons, humanistic ideologies, and soulish philosophies. Though much of the world adores this city, her hands are stained with the blood of multitudes of Christians martyred by her throughout history.

Having identified who the woman is, notice the great harlot “sits on many waters” (Rev. 17:1). What does this mean? The angel interprets the “many waters” fourteen verses later as “peoples and multitudes and nations and tongues” (Rev. 17:15). This means the city of Rome, and specifically the spiritual harlotry exported from this city through the Vatican and Pope, has worldwide influence.

John also saw this woman “sitting on a scarlet beast” (Rev. 17:3). This scarlet beast is the antichrist, who will bring the city of Rome, the Catholic Church, and the Pope to worldwide renown, much greater than it is today. Through his charisma, intellect, influence, and power, he will make Rome the greatest and most adored city on earth.

With this in mind, notice on the harlot's forehead are written the words, “BABYLON THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS AND OF THE ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH” (Rev. 17:5). The phrase “Babylon the great” is a direct quote of Nebuchadnezzar, when he said, “Is this not Babylon the great, which I myself have built as a royal residence by the might of my power and for the glory of my majesty?” (Dan. 4:30).

In my opinion, the Lord is connecting the last Babylon of Revelation 17-18 with Nebuchadnezzar's Babylon, showing that the harlot city is the final and ultimate manifestation of Babylon in the earth.

Studying history, we know ancient Babylon was far more than a false religious movement. It was the headquarter city of a worldwide kingdom. By writing “Babylon the great” on the harlot's forehead, the Lord identified her with Nebuchadnezzar's Babylon, which as we know, consisted of the three-cord strand of government, religion, and economy. This adds further proof the harlot Babylon, the city of Rome, will likely be the headquarter city for a one-world government, a one-world religion, and a one-world economy.

While many spend a great amount of time discussing the antichrist and his ruthless but short reign, few talk about the coming heavy-handed fist of the seventh kingdom, which will persecute all who will resist her universalism, tolerance, false justice, and compassionate but soulish humanitarianism.

The seventh kingdom's one-world government, religion, and economy “must continue a short time” (Rev. 17:10). This will certainly be longer than the eighth kingdom's brief reign of three-and-a-half years. Perhaps the seventh kingdom will be in place for several decades.

With this in mind, let's look now at the seventh kingdom's one-world government, one-world religion, and one-world economy.

One-World Government

As John gazed on the harlot city, he saw “the kings of the earth” committing “acts of immorality” with her (Rev. 17:2; 18:3). These kings not only fornicated with the harlot; they also “lived sensuously with her” (Rev. 18:9).

What does it mean for the kings of the earth to commit acts of immorality with the harlot city? If we look at the analogy John used, we can gain deeper insight into the meaning. Whenever a man hires a harlot, he pays money in exchange for short-term sexual gratification.

Translating this to a king or leader fornicating with the harlot city, this likely describes how kings, leaders, politicians, and technocrats will be bribed by the wealth of Babylon, giving her control over the people they lead and influence in exchange for large sums of money. When a leader accepts her bribes, the people under their influence will be brought under her iron fist through freedom-removing policies and liberty-stripping legislation. They will be placed into iron chains of tyranny, which includes subjection to her global laws, courts, police, armies, ideologies, philosophies, false justice, syncretic religion, and controlled economic system. In exchange, the leader will become extraordinarily prosperous as they live “sensuously with her.”

The harlot Babylon will be the headquarter city of a promised utopia, but in reality, she will enslave the masses, making them subjects of the global state. The ruling elite will become extraordinarily wealthy, the middle class will be eliminated, and the rest of the people will become serfs of Babylon.

The coming global government could likely be reminiscent of the book 1984—an Orwellian society ruled by an elite class of wealthy and powerful technocrats, who control every aspect of society and culture.

Perhaps this global society is regulated by a social credit system, somewhat like we see today in China. In this social credit system, if the citizens comply with the government’s policies, philosophies, culture, ideologies, and religion, they would be permitted to have good jobs, quality education, subsidized healthcare, entrance into sporting events and entertainment, housing, and bank accounts. However, those citizens who don’t comply—who think for themselves and live independent of government control—would be restricted from many of these amenities.

It’s quite possible the global government’s policies and legislation will be similar to the UN’s 17 Goals of Sustainable Development and relate to taxes, healthcare, education, racial and gender equality, sanitation, clean energy, economics, infrastructure, technology, city and community life, climate, and ecology.

Let me take a moment and talk about the UN’s 17 Goals of Sustainable Development and the 2030 Agenda, for this radical proposal could very well prepare the way for one-world government.

The UN’s 17 Goals of Sustainable Development

These 17 goals are a collection of interlinked global objectives. These are designed to be a blueprint to achieve a better and more sustainable future for the whole world. These 17 goals are:

1. No Poverty
2. Zero Hunger
3. Good Health and Well-being
4. Quality Education
5. Gender Equality
6. Clean Water and Sanitation
7. Affordable and Clean Energy
8. Decent Work and Economic Growth
9. Industry, Innovation and Infrastructure
10. Reducing Inequality
11. Sustainable Cities and Communities
12. Responsible Consumption and Production
13. Climate Action
14. Life Below Water
15. Life on Land
16. Peace, Justice, and Strong Institutions
17. Partnerships for the Goals

When you first read these goals, your initial reaction might be who could argue with this? This sounds so compassionate and empathic, a real display of loving your global neighbor as yourself. What type of unloving person would be against uniting the world with tolerant love to equalize the global citizens of the nations?

In reality, these 17 goals are a branded mask that covers for global government—a government which is a hybrid of socialism, corporatism, and technocracy. It has all the makings of the ancient tower of Babel, when a united people wanted to “build for [themselves] a city” (Gen. 11:4, emphasis mine). This time, however, it’s a global city united together by these 17 objectives.

Let’s quickly discuss a few of these goals so you really understand what this is all about.

Goal # 1: No Poverty

This means global wealth redistribution, not only by individuals but also by nations. The global government would not only heavily tax rich individuals but also rich nations. For example, America would be forced to pay substantial amounts to a poverty-ridden country like Haiti.

Goal # 3: Good Health and Well-being

This means universal health coverage for all. This would include vaccines for all and universal access to abortion. Every government in the world would be expected to integrate these services into their national strategies and programs. It’s important to note mass-murderer Vladimir Lenin said controlled healthcare or socialized medicine is the “keystone” of socialism.

Goal # 4: Quality Education

This means brainwashing our children to accept the world government’s ideas about history, sexual identity, sexual preference, racial inequality, human rights, global citizenship, religion, the climate, population control, and the role of government. We would not be able to have education choices, such as homeschooling our children. Our children would be subject to the state and we would not have any say in how they are educated.

Goal # 11: Sustainable Cities and Communities

This means the global elite want to move everyone from rural and suburban areas into large cities. These smart cities would be driven by the Internet of Things (IoT), Artificial Intelligence (AI), quantum computing, and 24-7 surveillance, where you no longer have any privacy and everything you do is closely monitored and controlled.

Goal # 12: Responsible Consumption and Production

This means global elites believe our current consumption and production patterns are unsustainable. Therefore, we will need to get by with less. How much less? In the minds of the elite, they think high meat intake, consumption of large amounts of frozen and convenience foods, ownership of motor vehicles, numerous electrical appliances, home and workplace air-conditioning, and expensive suburban housing are not sustainable. In short, this means, as the World Economic Forum has stated, “You will own nothing, rent everything, and be happy.”

One final note before moving on. The UN’s 2030 Agenda is the timeframe for when the global elite want to accomplish these 17 goals of sustainability. That means, during this decade of the 2020s, they are dead set on accomplishing these objectives. And if anything stands in their way, such as a strong adherence to nationalism, they will wage a fierce war against it.

A Government of Socialism, Corporatism, and Technocracy

These 17 goals are branded and marketed to sound like some grand utopia. But in reality, this is global socialism, run by a group of wealthy elites and technocrats. This is a government containing elements of socialism, corporatism, and technocracy. For those unfamiliar with these terms, let me quickly define them.

Socialism . . .

Is a political and economic theory of social organization, which advocates that the means of production, distribution, and exchange should be owned or regulated by the community as a whole.¹ In a socialistic government, the ownership usually belongs to the state. As many point out, socialism can easily lead to communism.

Corporatism . . .

Is the organization of a society into industrial and professional corporations serving as organs of political representation and exercising control over persons and activities within their jurisdiction.² In essence, corporatism is the merger of state and corporate power. For example, large corporations like AT&T, Walmart, and Amazon would merge with the state to serve the global community.

Technocracy . . .

Is the government or control of society or industry by an elite of technical experts.³ For example, Big Tech leaders like Twitter, Facebook, Google, Microsoft, Apple, and Amazon would be technocrat leaders in the UN's 2030 Agenda. These technocrats would help dictate public policy and legislation. Technocrats could also be healthcare, media, and economic leaders, who are considered smarter than the rest of us and therefore the ones dictating public policy.

In short, the seventh kingdom's one-world government could very well embody goals such as these to establish a global utopia for all.

One-World Religion

End-time Babylon is referred to as a harlot, primarily because of the false religion she exports to the nations. As is characteristic of Old Testament prophecy, spiritual harlotry and adultery symbolize a complex system of idolatry. Undoubtedly, the harlot Babylon will export false religion, ideologies, and philosophies to the nations. Those who don't bow to her manmade universalism and tolerant morality will be charged with hate crimes. Specifically, born-again Christians, who hold to the authority of God's Word and don't compromise with the LGBTQ agenda and universalism, will suffer persecution. Christians who believe, obey, and teach the Bible's narrow view of Jesus being the only way to salvation, there are only two genders, and marriage is between one man and one woman for life will be identified, marginalized, vilified, criminalized, and punished by the global state. Some will even be murdered because they remain true and faithful witnesses of Jesus Christ.

Satan will use this harlot religion to deceive the nations, including many believers. Sadly, many once loyal followers of Jesus Christ will apostatize from the faith (2 Thess. 2:3).

In the words of John, "those who dwell on the earth were made drunk with the wine of her immorality" (Rev. 17:2). Many around the world will drink the harlot's wine, and just like a drunk person, they will lose all sense of rationality, temperament, and the ability to make sound decisions. With self-control replaced by idolatrous brainwashing, many will be enflamed with satanic ideologies, inspiring them to engage in lawless and demonic activities. The harlot's seductive religion will transform many into completely different people.

This adulterous system of idolatry will have the riches of the world at her disposal. Not only will this global religious system have wealth beyond imagination, she has "in her hand a gold cup full of abominations and of the unclean things of her immorality" (Rev. 17:4). This certainly describes her syncretistic religion, humanistic ideologies, manmade philosophies, and doctrines of demons she will use to intoxicate and delude the nations.

What, exactly, will this false religion look like? Since this kingdom will have worldwide influence and appeal to the masses, it will likely be a religion which blends together Christianity, Judaism, Islam, and other world religions. I anticipate a new "Bible" to be written, canonizing the best from these world religions while leaving out the unenlightened hate speech, such as prohibitions against homosexuality and transgenderism. Jesus as the only way to God will certainly not make the final cut of this unholy "Bible."

When the world's great religions unite and coexist in peaceful harmony for the first time in history, the nations will celebrate and rejoice. The naïve will be seduced by the harlot's beauty and allurements; the undiscerning will be blinded by strong delusion; and the tolerant will be intoxicated with her false proclamations of peace, unity, love, justice, and compassion.

Though appealing to much of humanity, in God's eyes, this religion is pure witchcraft, for "all the nations [will be] deceived by [her] sorcery" (Rev. 18:23, emphasis mine). The harlot's extravagance and alluring beauty will be a cloak of deception, seducing the uninformed into an unbreakable union with deep darkness. Ultimately, those intoxicated by the harlot's idolatry will bow their knee to the antichrist and worship Satan (Rev. 13:3-4).

This universal religion, promulgated by the Pope and the Vatican, will attract much of the world, for it will emanate affirmation, tolerance, acceptance, human compassion, empathy, unity, and love. It will appear to solve the most complicated social and political issues of the day, bringing peace to the strife separating God's children and healing where religious conflicts and wars destroyed. But it will be a temporary and false peace, ultimately leading to destruction (1 Thess. 5:3).

This harlot religion will offer freedom with no moral absolutes, giving humanistic pleasure-seekers liberty to live autonomously while soothing their consciences with a little dab of religion. This harlot religion will also be a false justice movement, serving as the "hands and feet" of the one-world government's goals to eliminate hunger, poverty, and disease, helping to raise billions of dollars for humanitarian projects to ease the cry of the poor. This harlot religion will provide comfort for the suffering, peace in place of war, and benevolence to those living in poverty.

The harlot religion will be deeply committed to bringing justice to the marginalized and equity to the poor and discriminated. Through her compassionate acts toward "the least of these," she will earn the respect and admiration of many leaders, presidents, politicians, celebrities, and business leaders. Sadly, many church leaders will applaud the harlot religion and align themselves and the churches they lead with her humanitarian agenda.

Yet no matter how attractive she will appear, the harlot religion will be pure and raw humanism—mankind at its best, building a tower to heaven, through a united but false world religion. From the eyes of heaven, the harlot religion will be the very embodiment of hell on earth, as she will "become a dwelling place of demons and a prison of every unclean spirit, and a prison of every unclean and hateful bird" (Rev. 18:2).

Ultimately, Satan will use this harlot religion to weaken the conscience of the nations and prepare the earth to worship him through the antichrist.

Pope Francis and Universalism

For those who have followed Pope Francis, you know he has been a strong proponent of a one-world religion. In 2016, the Pope released a video showcasing worshipers from the four different world religions of Christianity, Islam, Judaism, and Buddhism.⁴ The central theme was we are all children of God, even if we think differently and worship God in our own unique way. This was universalism in its most basic and raw form, emanating from the Pope and the Vatican. Each of the different worshipers said, "I believe in love." The subtle message was, if you believe your religion is the only way to God, then you are an enemy of peace, love, and unity.

In February 2019, in front of a global audience of religious leaders from Christianity, Islam, Judaism, and other faiths, the Pope and the Grand Imam of al-Azhar signed a historic declaration, calling for peace between nations, religions, and races. This agreement was made in Abu Dhabi between Pope Francis and Sheikh Ahmed al-Tayeb, the head of Sunni Islam's most prestigious seat of learning. They are pushing for an interfaith of brotherhood between the world's religions.

In this declaration, they vowed religions must never incite war, violence, bloodshed, hateful attitudes, hostility, and extremism. In a document they released, entitled A Document on Human Fraternity for World Peace and Living Together, they used God interchangeably for the God of the Bible and Allah.⁵ This document also claimed pluralism and the diversity of religions, evident in the world, were intentionally willed by God. And if anyone states a person must adhere to a certain religion, this idea should be rejected since, in their minds, God has different ways to worship Him for different people, nationalities, and cultures. This agreement is likely laying the groundwork for the one-world religion of harlot Babylon, where it's commonly accepted different religions are equally valid and should be recognized as valid ways to God.

One-World Economy

Not only is the harlot Babylon a one-world government and a one-world religion, but it's her one-world economic system which will hold everything together and motivate the nations to align with her. This one-world financial system will usher in unprecedented global prosperity, and Rome, as the economic headquarters of this world-wide empire, will likely become one of the most affluent cities in the world. Through this new economic system, which will produce unprecedented wealth, kings, presidents, politicians, and other influential leaders will be seduced into the one-world government and religion, thus expanding her territory, reach, and influence.

When John saw the harlot city sitting atop the beast, she was “clothed in purple and scarlet, and adorned with gold and precious stones and pearls” (Rev. 17:4). This undoubtedly refers to the opulence and wealth which will characterize the city of Rome at the end of the age, as the one-world economy produces the greatest wealth in history.

The harlot’s economic system will cause “the merchants of the earth,” who are “the great men of the earth,” to “become rich by the wealth of her sensuality” (Rev. 18:3, 23). Revelation 18:15 states “the merchants . . . became rich from her” (Rev. 18:15). This one-world economy will probably be some type of corporate fascism or corporatism, where the world’s great business leaders join together with the global state, to provide the citizens of the world their products and services in exchange for unparalleled wealth.

This harlot city, because of her exorbitant wealth, will “live sensuously,” providing the world with “all things that were luxurious and splendid” (Rev. 18:7, 14). She will provide the earth with “such great wealth” (Rev. 18:17). Even those who operate “ships at sea” will become “rich by her wealth” (Rev. 18:19).

Because this one-world economy is so important to the one-world government and religion, John devotes an entire chapter, Revelation 18, to describe this economic system in great detail. I would encourage you to read through this chapter for yourself.

The main takeaway is the one-world economy will be the vital glue binding together the global government and religion, serving as the main incentive for many nations to align themselves with the seventh kingdom.

It’s quite possible the Great Reset, which incorporates Inclusive Capitalism, is the beginning of the one-world economy.

The Great Reset

Led by the World Economic Forum (WEF), the global elite want to take advantage of the Covid-19 pandemic to fundamentally change the global economy.

Just who is the WEF? According to their website, they are an international organization for public-private cooperation, meaning they are pushing for corporatism or corporate fascism—the joining together of large corporations with the state. The WEF engages the foremost political, business, cultural, and other leaders of society to shape global, regional, and industry agendas.

The WEF, in partnership with many powerful and wealthy elite, want to weaponize the coronavirus in order to bankrupt many nations. Their agenda includes weakening America, especially the U.S. economy. To shift from Shareholder Capitalism (seeking the benefit of the owners) to Stakeholder Capitalism (seeking the benefit of the community, also known as Inclusive Capitalism) requires a weakened dollar—one that is no longer the world’s reserve currency.

This aggressive agenda is known as the Great Reset and is presently one of the main focuses of the world’s elite. For example, globalist leader Justin Trudeau, the Prime Minister of Canada, said, “This pandemic has provided an opportunity for a reset. This is our chance to accelerate our pre-pandemic efforts to reimagine economic systems that actually address global challenges like extreme poverty, inequality, and climate change. . . . Working back better methods offering to back the most defenseless while keeping up our energy on arriving at the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and the [Sustainable Development Goals].”⁶

Many other world leaders, including Joe Biden, are talking about “Building Back Better.” This is a marketing slogan to promote the Great Reset, the 17 Sustainable Development Goals, and the UN’s 2030 Agenda.

In short, today’s global elite want to establish one-world socialism governed by unelected technocrats, merged together with Big Business and Big Tech, who rule because of their specialized knowledge, products, or services. These technocrats want to define the rules, laws, economy, religion, and culture of the world.

Life Has Never Been Better

Prior to December 2020, the WEF had an article on their website titled Welcome to 2030. I own nothing, have no privacy, and life has never been better. Sometime after this, likely in response to the pushback they received, the WEF changed the title to Here's how life could change in my city by the year 2030.⁷ In the article, you will see the WEF's plan for a great reset. They plan to eliminate private property, privacy, and ownership of everything, including cars, kitchen appliances, homes—you name it.

The WEF also posted a video promoting their plans.⁸ In this short video, they promise: You'll own nothing. And you'll be happy. Instead of purchasing, whatever you want you'll rent and it'll be delivered by drone. The WEF has also predicted the US won't be the world's leading superpower because they foresee a future where a handful of countries will dominate. And finally, if you are a meat lover, the WEF boldly declares you'll eat much less meat. An occasional treat, not a staple for the good of the environment and our health. I'm sure that last one will go over well in the American South, where we love our steaks, ribs, and brisket.

Sounds like they want an Orwellian society based on the book 1984, doesn't it?

Pope Francis Promotes Inclusive Capitalism

In early December 2020, Pope Francis announced the Vatican's partnership with leaders of major corporations and organizations. These include BP, Johnson & Johnson, DuPont, the Rockefeller Foundation, the Ford Foundation, Visa, and Estée Lauder. Together, they have formed the Council for Inclusive Capitalism.

Just to be clear, Inclusive Capitalism is synonymous with the Great Reset's plans for Shareholder Capitalism. It is an economic system that will undergird the UN's 17 Goals for Sustainable Development.

On December 8, 2020, this group announced the creation of "the Council for Inclusive Capitalism with the Vatican," which "is a global nonprofit organization established under the auspices of the Vatican with the moral guidance of Pope Francis."⁹ Their mission "is to harness the potential of the private sector to create a more inclusive, sustainable, and trusted form of capitalism."¹⁰

According to their press release, "The Council is led by a core group of global CEOs and public leaders, known as the Guardians for Inclusive Capitalism, who convene annually with the Vatican to advance the Council's mission."¹¹

Lynn Forester de Rothschild, the founder of the Council and Managing Partner of Inclusive Capital Partners, said this non-profit organization will ensure businesses respond to the Pope's call to hear "the cry of the earth and the cry of the poor."¹²

In the minds of those spearheading this non-profit organization, capitalism has created enormous prosperity around the world, but too often, it has left many people behind, especially those in third-world nations. Therefore, there's a need for a new form of capitalism that is more equitable and sustainable. There must be economic equality around the world. The wealth must be shared with those less fortunate. In other words, Inclusive Capitalism is socialism rebranded to gain greater worldwide acceptance.

Whatever this ends up looking like, you can see how the world's wealthy elite are partnering together with the Vatican and Pope to create a one-world economy that will advance the UN's 17 Goals for Sustainable Development.

A Global Digital Economy

One final point before closing. When the antichrist is given authority over the nations for 42 months or 3.5 years, he will immediately implement the mark of the beast (Rev. 13:16). This economic system will prohibit people without this mark from buying or selling (Rev. 13:17).

The mark of the beast will undoubtedly be enforced through technology. Even now, several companies already have a small chip that can be implanted in your hand. This chip can be scanned by a smart phone or tablet to make a transaction.

Having worked in the I.T. industry for over 25 years, it's hard to imagine the antichrist rolling out a sophisticated and centralized global digital economic system during a time of world war and international chaos. I know from firsthand experience how long it takes to deploy software and to work out all of the issues. That's why I believe the seventh kingdom will establish a global digital economic system.

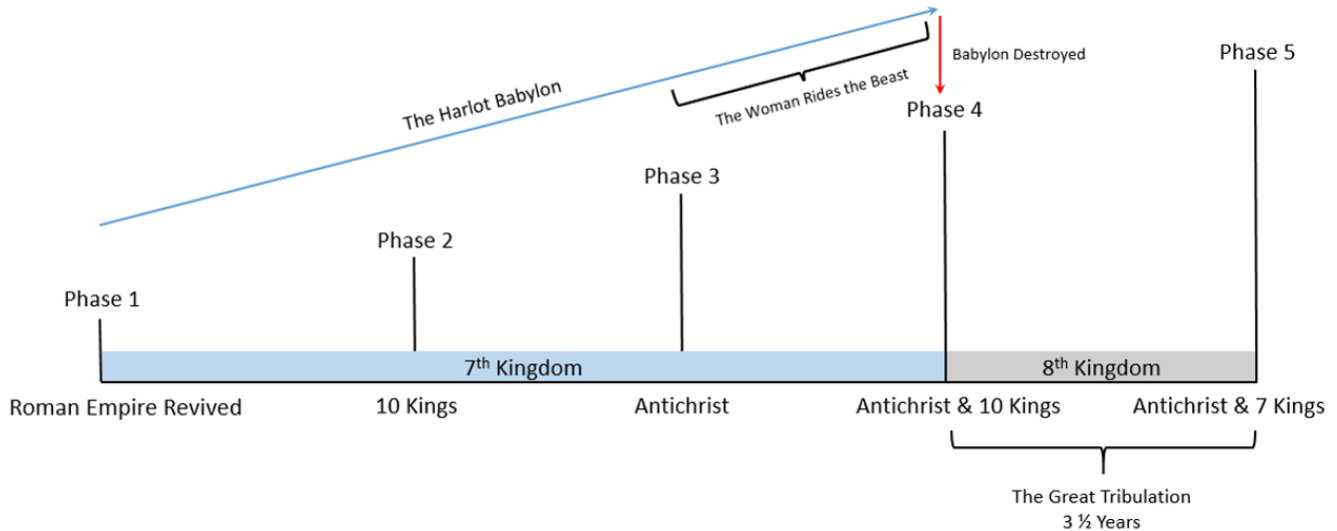

This global economic system will obviously be in place prior to the last 3.5 years of the age, for it will likely take several years to rollout such a sophisticated computer system. In all likelihood, there will be a global digital economy—a cashless system—in place for many years before the antichrist comes to power. All the kinks will be worked out before the antichrist’s eighth empire. Then, when the antichrist becomes king of the eighth kingdom, he will merely “flip a switch” to implement his mark of the beast economic system.

In Conclusion . . .

The harlot city of end-time Babylon is rising up in the earth, seeking to unite the nations through a global government, religion, and economic system. This chord of three-stands will prepare the earth for the coming of the antichrist.

The chart below depicts how the rise and fall of the harlot Babylon fits into the five phases we looked at in the previous session.
